Lubna Omar

11 ديسمبر 2024

My cousin, Mohannad Omar, was a Palestinian Syrian journalist who paid the ultimate price for speaking the truth. Arrested in 2012 at just 27, he was detained in Saydnaya Prison. In 2018, his family received devastating news that he had been executed in 2013, only a year after his arrest.

Despite this, rumors and vague reports over the years suggested he might still be alive. When detainees were released from Saydnaya on Saturday and Sunday, that hope grew stronger. But the past days have confirmed his fate—Mohanand is gone. He has escaped the torture and darkness of that human slaughterhouse to a better, more peaceful place.

Though he is one of many who suffered this fate, Mohanand will forever be missed by his parents, wife, children, siblings, and everyone who had the privilege of knowing him. His courage and sacrifice will never be forgotten.
