Press Statement

Khaled Khoja

President of the Syrian Coalition

April 01, 2015

“I was appalled by reports that ISIS thugs murdered over 30 civilians in the village of Mabuja, east of the province of Hama yesterday. The victims, including women and children, were slaughtered in a barbaric savage manner by ISIS thugs according to reports coming from the area. I condemn atrocities committed by ISIS against all Syrians, including religious and ethnic minorities.

The spread of extremism in Syria has been made possible by the excessive violence of Assad's militias. It continues to be sustained by the reluctance of the international community to take action to stop atrocities in Syria. Supporting moderate forces is the only hope for Syria. It is the only way to ensure a stable region free from extremism and tyranny.”
