Every two hours a Syrian child dies. In effort to bring awareness to the plight of Syrian children, the Syrian Coalition is launching a number of public service announcements (PSA) regarding the dire humanitarian situation in Syria. The PSA Tick Tock describes the heavy toll Assad's crimes have taken on Syrian children.

As much of the world celebrates Eid on October 14, Syrian children face a shortage of basic necessities and unrelenting military attacks by the Assad regime. However, when asked, Syrian children tell us one of the things they miss the most is school. Millions of Syrian children have been unable to attend school for over two years.

Please help to raise awareness about the struggle of Syrian children to help put a stop to Assad's crimes against children. Visit stopassad.com to learn more.
